BMW M3 MOV'IT brake upgrade

Need better brakes for your BMW M3? Didn't think so. But in case you do, try these for size. MOV'IT 380mm ceramic discs at all four corners with six piston billet calipers on the front and four-piston on the back.

MOV'IT say they improve braking by up to 70 percent. They also say the upgrade provides a weight saving of 50 percent.

This is the company who do the brakes for the Bugatti Veyron and some Formula 1 teams, so they must know what they're on about. It also means, yes, they do come at a price. $30,665 to be precise.

Still, if you want to stop like a slammed door as soon as you touch the brake pedal, then we're bidding these will probably do the trick.

Holy crap. Those are seriously big brakes. I'd like to know what G forces they pull when really stopping hard.

Depends on how good the tyres grip to the road.

Exactly. These brakes are fully effective if the car is running semi-slicks. Otherwise you will constantly activate the ABS.
